The funeral of Frank Leslie took place yesterday morning at the Church of the Divine Paternity, at Fifth-ave. and Forty-fifth-st., and despite the bad weather was largely attended. The Rev. Dr. E. H. Chapin conducted the exercises. The coffin, which was covered with black cloth, was borne into the church at 10:45. the organist playing a dirge. On the inside of the lid of the coffin was a silver plate bearing simply the name, "Frank Leslie." The following pall-bearers then took the first row of seats: Ex-Governor Alexander Rice, of Massachusetts; Sinclair Tousey, Whitelaw Reid, John Firch, John McKeon, General Charles K. Graham, Erastus Brooks, Henry F. Gillig, R. B. Kimball and Dr. W. W. Strew. The bearers who carried the coffin into the church represented the various departments in the publishing house of which the dead man was the head. They were David B. Gulick, general superintendent; Albert Bergmans, of the art department; Benjamin Smith, of the editorial reem; H. L.

Albert Berginaus, of the art department; Benjamin G. Smith, of the editorial room; H. L. Bridgman, of the counting room; George W. Ladd, of the press room; John McCabe of the composing room, and Michael Crane, of the electrotype department. The chief morners were Mrs. Frank Leslie and the dead man's brother William, and Mr. Leslie's two sons. Henry and Alfred, the latter with his wife and two little boys. Among the others present were Joaquin Miller, Morris Phillips, Colonel Molyneau Bell, Colonel Hoos. W. Knox, Colonel Disosway, P. T. Barnum, General Duryca and Patrick Fyrelly. Nearly 200 of the workmen in the different departments of the publishing house were present during the services in the church and at the grave. Of the editors of Frank Leslie's periodicals there were present, N. Robinson, of The Illustrated News., J.J. Shea, of The Chimney Corner, W. Harding, of The Engis and Giris' Weekly, C. H. Weib, of The Ladies' Journal, and B. W. Tomlinson, of The Illustrated Times.

All in the church arese as the coffin was carried up the aisle. On the too lay two sprays of palm, and between the coffin and the pulpit were a large pillow and crown of flowers. The exercises were opened by the choir, which sang "Nearer my God to Thee." Dr. Chapin then read several passages of Scripture, after which he spoke of the certainty of death, and of the lessons that were to be drawn from its presence. He spoke briefly of the excellent qualities of kindness and generosity which were conspicuous in the character of the dead man, presence. He spoke briefly of the excellent quantities of kindness and generosity which were conspicuous in the character of the dead man. His name, he said, was associated with usefulness and culture, and his works would live after him. His life had been full of unostentatious charity. Patient, and with a kind heart, be did to others as he would that others would do unto him. Those that mourned him had the consolution of knowing that they could mingle their cur of tears with the sweetness of faith.

their cup of tears with the sweetness of faith.

The brief service being over, the friends took a last look at the body. The scene was very affecting when the sons and the wife of the dead man were present at the coffin. A special train of four cars carried the relatives and friends to Woodlawn Cemetery, where the Rev. Edward M. Deems read the committal and the prayers of the Episcopal Church by the side of the grave. The family lot is in East Border-ave., opposite its intersection with Central-ave.

WHAT THE DRUG CLERK DID NOT TELL. ELWOOD MORRISON'S REITERATIONS-WHAT THE POLICE HAVE DISCOVERED.

Etwood Morrison, the drug clerk who was shot in Sixth-ave., early Monday morning, is recovering from his wound and expects to leave the hospital soon. He was visited yesterday by his father and other relatives. He still tells the same story of the way about the shooting. When his attention was called to the discrepancy between his story o having left the home of his sister-in-law at abou midnight, and the fact as subsequently learned, that he had left it earlier in the evening, he recalled that he had left it earlier in the evening, he recalled that he had left it earlier than he first stated, and had gone to Koster and Biai's, in Twenty-third-st, before going to the store. Otherwise, he reiterates what he has said hitherto. The police, however, reach a very different con-clusion. They have found a colored woman who says she was present when the shots were fired, and says he was present when the shots were fired, and will identify the woman who assailed Morrison. The Captain of the Nineteenth Precinct, in which the assault took place, gives the following as the story which he has learned from the witness, whose name he does not wish to divalge: Morrison, he says, was walking up Sixth-ave, toward his store in company with this woman, when they were met by another colored woman, who spoke to him and finally, excited by jealousy, drew a pistol and shot him. The wounded man then turned and ran up Forty-sixth-st., pursued by the woman, who, being mable to overtake him, thraced back to Sixth-ave, and disappeared. The same woman had called at Dr. Sayre's store twice during the earlier part of the same evening inquiring for Morrison. The police say that the woman formerly lived in one of the hovels along the North River, but they have not succeeded in finding her since the shooting took place.

ATTEMPTING TO BURN NO. 139 BLEECKER-ST.—THE INCENDIARY SEEN IN THE HALL.

A deliberate attempt was made yesterday morning before daylight to burn up the house No. 139 Bleecker-st., at the corner of South Fifth-ave., in which at the time ten or twelve persons were sleeping. The first floor of the building is occupied by a wire-worker named Gaillard, who, with his family, sleep in a back room. A Mrs. McCormack had ocsleep in a back room. A Mrs. McCormack had occupied the upper floors for years. Last week she died, and yesterday was appointed for the sale of her furniture. Her daughter, Mrs. Lewis, who had been busy with the work of arranging the things for the auction, slept on the second floor with a for the auction, slept on the second floor with a servant, and in another part of the building slept a Mr. Wallace and a Mr. Stewart, who were interested in the sale. At 4 c'clock in the morning Mrs. Lewis became aware of a strong smell of burning rags, and rousing a servant went with her to look for the cause. In the hall they found thick smoke, and from the head of the last landing on the stairs caught sight of a man fanning a fire which he had made on the floor in the main hall in a pile of rags evidently collected for the purpose.

Warned of the presence of the women by their exclamations of fright, he ran through the front door, which had not been closed during the night, and escaped. Mr. Gaillard and the other men in the house were aroused and quickly put out the fire, which as yet had not attacked the woodwork. On the floor they found scattered a quantity of matches. The police were informed, but were unable to find any clew to the incendiary. A very imperfect view of him was obtained by Mrs. Lewis by the light of the half-kindled fire, but she describes him as of low staure, with heavily-bearded face, and wearing a soft hat.

MODEL OF A SELF-DUMPING SCOW. John W. Mitchell exhibited yesterday afternoon a model of a new self-dumping seew which he has invented and patented. The model exhibited was on the scale of one inch to the foot, and was 75 inches long, 33 inches broad, 11 mehes deep, and perfectly symmetrical, the ends being alike, and the top and bottom being exactly similar, so that each may serve equally well to carry the load or remain under water. The model of the load or remain under water. The model of the seew is made of wood and contains two air chambers 1½ inches deep, and between them a water compartment 8 inches deep. Two valves open on each side through the chambers into the water compartment, and all the valves are connected, so that they may be opened or closed at once by means of a single lever.

After the loaded scow has reached its destination the lever is turned, the valves open, and as the water compartment fills the scow settles until the deck is submerged, when the boat begins to rotate, and as one side rises, air enters the valves on that side, so that in a few minutes the load has been deposited. The scow continues to rotate until it has resumed its old position, but what was before the bottom now becomes the deck. Having thrown off the load the air chambers cause the boat to rise till all the water has left it, and the valves are then closed. It is claimed that a scow of the same dimension as one of the old kind will carry double the amount of matter. One 100 feet long would weigh loaded about 60 tons and its air chambers would have a buoyancy of 105 tons, so that it could be used in a very rough sea. No person is to remain on the secow.

Mr. Mitchell has made an offer to the Commissions to the same different to the city for

Mr. Mitchell has made an offer to the Commissioners to remove the garbage of the city for $100,000 a year, a price, he states, much less than that which is now paid. The scow will be practitally tested in a few days.

CAUSE OF THE CELLULOID EXPLOSION. Edward Dowd, the seventh of the victims of the celluloid explosion, at Newark, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning at his home in Elm-st., Newark. Yes terday morning, the coroner's jury to investigate the cause of the explosion, rendered its verdiet declar-ing that the disaster was the result of trying an ex-periment ordered by the managers of the business, who are strongly censured for negligence in per-mitting the process to be so tried.

DR. VAN DYKE'S ASSOCIATES. DENIED AN INVESTIGATION AS TO THEIR ALLEGED "MORAL ROTTENNESS."

In the Brooklyn Fresbytery yesterday, the Rev. J. D. Wells, D. D., a venerable man, with a long white beard and snowy hair, requested, in behalf of himself and the other complainants in the Talmage case, with the exception of Dr. Van Dyke (his case having already been disposed of), that their characters be investigated by the Presbytery on account of the allegations made against them by Mr. Talmage. Mr. Crosby offered a resolution that this request should be granted.

Dr. Spear said that he was surprised that this question should be brought up so soon after its settlement in the case of Dr. Van Dyke and at a time when only a small part of the members of the question should be brought up so soon after its settlement in the case of Dr. Van Dyke and at a time when only a small part of the members of the Presbytery was present.

Mr. Crosby said that there was no intention to bring it up anew. They admitted that it had been settled, but they wished for an expression of opinion on the request of each complainant.

On motion of Dr. Rockwell, the following resolution was adopted without debate and without dissent, none of the complainants voting:

Resolved, That the Presbytery, no being aware of any report against the reputation of the 2 w. Dr. J. D. Wells and the other complainants, such as the scene of the book glying authority for such investigation contemplates, and knowing nothing against his character, Insternally decline to accede to the request preferred.

Mr. Crosby gave notice that he intended to offer a protest against the refusal of the Presbytery on the part of the Rev. Henry J. Van Dyke, pr. was read. He states his reasons as follows:

You have just defined an appeal on the part of a slandered individual for judicial investigation under the following creumstances: A member of the Pre-bytery on the moraling of Sunday, D-cember 7, pr. vious to the administration of the commonon, read from his pulpit an accusation against certain of the members of the Presbytery, charging them with presecution, false-hood, esponage and moral rotteness. One of these members, acting under the Book of Discipline. Chan, 3, Sec. 6, appealed to you for a judicial investigation. For the saile of an appearance of peace you refused to grant this lawful right. You have, therefore, left the Presbytery in this pestion—cither it contains ambicious and unjust persecutors, whose character is merally rotten; or it contains entered in the said of the contains of the contains and unjust persecutors, whose character is merally rotten; or it contains position—either it contains malicious and unjust perscuters, whose character is morally rotten; or it contain a man who uses the pulpit and the communion table shelter him in slandering his brethren. I am newlling to remain in connection with such a body.

On the Bev. S. P. Halsey's motion, action upon Mr. Van Dyke's request was deferred, and the Presbytery adjourned.

A CONCERT FOR WILSON MISSION.

A concert will be given in Chickering Hall on Thursday evening, January 22, for the benefit of the Wilson Mission.

This institution, situated in St. Mark's-place, has been for many years one of the noblest charities in the city-giving shelter and education to a large number of girls, who are in daily attendance at the school and who receive most thorough instruction in the English branches, in sewing and in house work. A chapel is connected with the Mission, where religious instruction is given, and which has been the means of conveying benefit to this densely populated part of the city. The mothers of the chil-eren are also remembered, and are present at the Mission once a week to receive work and encouraging words.

A club for boys has been organized, and is successfully managed by some enterprising gentlemen, who

BREAKING UP DISORDERLY HOUSES. Captain Berghold, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, everal days ago applied to Justice Duffy, at the Jefferson Market Police Court, and asked that warrants be issued for the apprehension of the inmates rants be issued for the apprehension of the immates of the disorderly houses Nos. 134, 138, 140 and 142 West Twenty-seventh-st. He said that there was great complaint made against them by the residents of the neighborhood, and for several weeks he had been investigating the matter personally. The warants were granted, and late on Monday night Captain Berghold, accompanied by Sergeants Keating and Westervelt, and Detectives Price and Schmittberger made a descent on the houses and arrested twenty-six women and five men. Yesterday the prisoners were arraigned before Justice Duffy in the Jefferson Market Police Court. Several of the neighbors testified to their bad character. Justice Duffy committed the women to the Workhouse for terms of from one to three months, and fined the men $10 each. men $10 cach.

WABASH TRAFFIC ARRANGEMENTS. B.W. Lewis, jr., formerly president of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railroad, and since the union with the Wabash Road, first vice-president of the consolidated company has resigned his office. Yesterday A. L. Hopkins, second vice-president, was chosen to succeed him. The contract for exchange of traffic between the Wabash and the Lake Shore and Central Railroads was executed on Monday. The equipment of certain freight lines is to be increased largely. The cars of the Red Line, properly a Lake Shore line, the Canada Southern Line and the Hoosac Tunnel Line are run over the Wabash Railroad, but not exclusively. To these lines are to be added about 6,600 cars, which are to be used solely between Boston and New-York and the western termini of the Wabash Road.

OPPOSING OLEOMARGARINE.

At a meeting of the National Association for the Prevention of Adulteration of Butter held yesterday at No. 309 Greenwich-st., resolutions were offered condemning "all encouragement" given to the sale of oleomargarine. When the resolutions were read H. K. Thurber, of H. K. & F. B. Thurber & Co., arose and said that he and every one present knew that he was aimed at in them, and that he objected that he was aimed at in them, and that he objected to having his name connected with any charges of swindling. He had, he said, furnished money to the Commercial Manufacturing Company to enable it to continue the manufacture of obeomargarine, and he now sold it as he would sell any other legicimate article of merchandise, but he sold it for what it was and used no deception. Despite Mr. Thurber's remarks the resolutions were passed.

WORLD'S FAIR MEETING TO-NIGHT.

JOHN KELLY ON CHARLES O'CONOR. SHARP CRITICISM SHARPLY ANSWERED. WEATH OF THE TAMMANY CHIEF AT MR. O'CONOR'S

ESTIMATE OF HIM AND OF THE TAMMANY BOLT -A LOW OPINION OF THE LEADER OF THE BAR NOT ONLY AS A POLITICIAN BUT ALSO AS A LAWYER.

A letter written by Charles O'Conor in answer to an invitation to be present at the banquet in Newark, given by the Democratic Club of Essex County N. J., in commemoration of the battle of New-Orleans, has been printed. In it he gives his views of the political outlook. He declares his belief that it is absolutely impossible that "anyone called a Democrat" can b chosen in the next Presidential contest, principally be-cause the thirty-five electoral votes of the State of New-York have been delivered into the hands of the Republican party. He believes that the present Republican Legislature will change the law governing the choice of Presidential elecpeople and vesting it in the Legislature. For this action he asserts, they would have the ground that it was i reprisal for the course pursued by the Democrats it Maine. He declares that all that the Democrats can deis to foment discord in the Republican camp. He adds Without looking to other consequences, or conjectur ing vital changes, it may fairly be supposed that it General Grant should once again occupy the Excentive Chair be will hold it during lite." For this condition of things, "involving the complete rule of the Democratic party throughout the Union," he considers that the boll f Tammany Hall, und r the leadership of John Kelly, is directly responsible.

Mr. O'Canor speaks thus of Mr. Kelly: "His rank was not that of a party leader; he was merely a local faction!-f, and besides, it would be an unjust imputation to charge him with wiltuly misleading his followers into the support of their deadliest fees. Almost exclusively of his own caste, he could not have intended to betray them. Doubtless he was nainformed in the matter. His fault was the varu presumption displayed in dealing with such important affair inops: consili-i. Unlike him the real leaders—the assumed managers of party interests—were learned and entitivated men. They were con versant by profession with the Constitution and lawthey were statesmen accustomed to the consideration of ubile affairs, and most, if not all, of them were stimul lated by intense personal amoition to keep their eyes upon the rudder and their thoughts awake to every spect of impending difficulties. It seems strange it deed that they failed to notice the storm-signs presaging the dire disaster which has befallen their party and themselves."

MR. KELLY'S REPLY TO MR. O'CONOR. Mr. Keliy was called on yesterday by a reporter of THE TEIMENE, and the following conversation ensued: " Mr. Kelly, have you read Mr. O'Conor's letter to the Democratic Club of Essex County, and his reference to

Yes, I have read it," was the reply.

"Yes, I have read it," was the reply.

"Have you anything to say about it!"

"Mr. O'Conor is a conceited old man," replied the Controller, "who in hes retirement has imagined himself the monitor of the political affairs of the country; but you must make a little allowance for age. It is said that people grow more childish as they grow older. That is the most charitable way of looking at it. I might say, too, that during his long life he was never known to do: actistible thing pointically. While he has had the reputa-tion of being a great lawyer, to my mind he is a to preserve what fittle reputation he has as a lawyer than to be dabbling in politics, and attributing im-than to be dabbling in polities, and attributing improper motives to men who are his equals, at any rate in all that constitutes character."

"Mr. O'Conor says that be believes the large Republican neglectivin the Legislature, with a Resulting towernor, will improve the opportunity to change the law governing the election of Presidential electors, and vest the choree in the Legislature, and be says they have ground for the in the action of Governor Garcelon and his associates in Maine."

"I have not the least idea," said Mr. Kelly, "that the Republicates in our State Legislature will attempt to change the mode of choosing Presidential electors. If they did, it would arouse the pariotism of the whole country against them. I do not believe they are so unwise as to do so feedsh a thing."

What do you think of the action of Governor Garceion and his associates in the action of Governor Gar"Governor Garcelon, in my opinion, did not violate the laws or usury the political Government of the State.
He followed the laws as he found then on the statutebook, and his oath of office compensed his to administer the laws in accordance with his conscience and best information."

"Mr. O'Conor says that the direct effect of the Tammany Hall boit has been the rum of the Democratic party throughout the Union, and he holds you responsible The Controller straightened himself up and replied: "The Tammany Hall belt was a manly thing, and will do more toward annihilating ambitious and unscrupatous men in the party and correeting the abuses that they have brought into it than years. Mr O'Conor has always had the reputation of being unwilling to allow persons to disagree with him on any pet subject of his own. This shows the littleness of his nature. No generous man, possessed of the traits of true character, would ever be so uncharitable and of true character, would ever be so uncharitable and illiberal as not to concede to others the rights which be claims for homself. He once attacked the Court of Appacis for having rendered an opinion according to its convictions and best judgment, and I believe now that it is conceded by every sensible lawyer not blassed by prejudiced, that it the Court had decided otherwise it would have lowered used in the original of every honest man. No better evidence of the views of Mr. O'Conor on the principles of this coverament, and the impracticability of the man, can be shown that that which he publishes in his letter. For instance, take the paragraph in which he recommends the abolition of the quadrennial Presidency, and that an executive chief shall be selected by lot from the legislative corps for the casuing month on some late day in each month. This would absolutely take away from the beauty corps for the casuing month on some late day in each month. This would absolutely take away from the vector of Fresident, and would probably do more to bring about a despotism than anything else that could be suggested. If it du not do this, it would lead to great confusion and probably anarchy. It would have been a great deal better for Mr. O'Conor if he had bein his pence on these subjects, for surely whatever may be the reputation be has gained on his supposed superiority and knowledge, there will be in future a great many scepiles. Most people would not be willing to give not credit for his great legal attainments. I think how it is pretty generally understood by the members of the bar that the credit given to him for his var's superiority over other lawyers was rather far fetched, for be has assumed a certain amount of arrogance toward the bench and the bar in the credit given to him for his var's superiority over other lawyers was rather far fetched, for be has assumed a certain amount of arrogance toward the bench and the bar in the credit given to him for his var's superiority over other lawyers was rather far fetche illiberal as not to concede to others the rights which be in speaking of you ?" "He probably wants to create the impression that the mass of the people are of an inferior grade to himself, and were not capable of comprehending the condition of affairs politically in the tais State last Fall. He then tries to be charitable by saying that their error should be forgiven, as their standard of Intelligence is far below that of himself. This is another cyldence of his concert and want of knowledge of the dence of his concell and want of knowledge of the motives which influence people in exercising their pre-rogatives according to their best judgment. There is harriy one of the men he assails who is not inly as canable of understanding subjects connected with our G-yerament as Mr. O'Conor, if we are to take his views as a criterion as published. If he was in Russia he would undoubledly be an Imperialist; if in Eugland a Monarcidst."

"Why do you take this view of his character?"
"It is snown by the fact that when he went alread, bout 1940, he spelled his name with two n's; at least is records of the courts will show he did. But after stilling some of the landed aristecracy of frehand, who is now accused of taking the life-blood of the people of new accused of taking the life-blood of the people of name O'Conor, he was quick to lopt the lint so as to be in line with a 'Higheality.' This is a fair illustration of his aracter." arneter." But, Mr. Kelly, does it not require an act of the "Hot, Mr. Kellt, does it not require an act of the Legislature to change a man's name it" "It does, but it appears he didn't resort to the Legislature, or if he did I have no recollection of it."

Mr. Wilds in reply to questions made the following statement as representing the clauss and

"The Board of Directors of the St. Louis, Alion and Terre Hante Railroad Company ever since the reorganization in 1862, have been chosen and controlled by the bondholders exclusively; the stockholders, scattered throughout the country, have been outvoted and had no voice in the management. The company's suit for the accovery of $500,000, alleged to be wrongfully withheld by four of their prominent members, with accumulations of interest amounting to between $460,000 and $500,000 additional, has been settled in such manner that the company recovers only about $400,000 and loses about $600,000," "Was not this in accordance with the proposition of the present managers of the property ?" "Yes. And the defendants preferred to accept it rather than to meet the full issue in open court, caused by the owner of the mines at Hawk's Nest. The stockholders who knew the facts concerning who pays his men 38 cents per ton, while all other the liability of the defendants in this suit, are the liability of the defendants in this suit, are justly dissatisfied with the course that has bee pursued, in compromising for less than fifty cents on the dollar of the whole amount claimed and due to the company and admitted by the settlement, instead of bringing the defendants to a full accounting. Every dollar of the claims might have been recovered."

"What is the basis of this further claim?" "It is shown in the statement made by the committee appointed by the bondholders board of direction to the bondholders and shareholders August 15, 1876, in which it appears that $131,000 of first mortgage bonds, $82,000 of second mortgage preferred bonds, $38,000 of second mortgage income bonds, 898 shares of preferred stock, and 2,800 shares of common stock, subsequently to the settlement made by the purchasing committee, were issued and made an active liability of the company without any resulting pecuniary advantage or consideration to the company; and that these securities had come into the hands of the late Robert Bayard, as trustee of the first mortgage bonds, and of Charles Butler, as trustee of the balance. Mr. Bayard, in 1870, divided the sarplus $131,000 in his bands-having first purchased one bond of $1,000, to secure equality of division—giving $33,000 to Mr. Tilden, $33,000 to Charles Butler. $33,000 to Russell Sage, and retaining $33,000 for hts own account, and also divided equally among the same parties the interest accrued on these bonds from July, 1862, to January 1870, inclusive, making a total, with interest, of about $200,000. And Mr. Bayard admitted to the committee that 'he had likewise received certain dividends from the surplus in the hands of Mr. Charles Buller, but that he was unable to state the exact amounts; that he did not believe that he had received as much as the others, and that he had tried in vain to get an accounting from Mr. Butler; and that he (Bayard) had expressed his readiness to return all

TERRE HAUTE RAILWAY TO OPPOSE THE LATE SETTLEMENT OF THE SUITS AGAINST THE

Areport prevalent in Wall-Street immediately views of the dissatisfied stockholders:

(Bayard) had expressed his readiness to return all that he receive a should it be deen ed that the property does not belong to him, and when the proper owners shall be ascertained."

"No accounting could be obtained from Mr. Butler of the trust committed to him; and from a recent settlement the accounting for the securities so held by him has not been made. It also appears from this report that five shares of the preferred stock were issued to 'John G. Richardson and not accepted by him,' and that 'Mr Butler cancelled this certificate although unendorsed by Richardson, and issued five shares to himself,' which are included in the 898 shares of preferred stock, the proceeds of which are not accounted for on the books of the company. The appear nity matural and legitimate issue of common stock at the date of organization, July 1, 1862, was 20,185 shares. Then followed two issues amounting to 35 shares; then an issue 1,2782 shares, making a total of 23,002 shares of common stock. Subsequently 46 shares more were issued which carried the total to 23,048 shares, which was 48 shares in excess of the authorized capital, and to correct this over-issue Mr. Butler gave to the company. The committee further states that since the commencement of the soil recently settled. Their attention has been called to the fact that sums of money have been taken from the carnings of the road to perfect the title of the property conveyed to the company, by ratifying claims for right of way, find damages, etc., existing before the date of reorganization. These should have all been met from the surplus assets in the hunds of the purchasing committee. In the committee under instruction of the bond-holder's board of direction were authorized amounts, which have havened active head to be for the company of the committee for the committee under instruction of the bond-holder's board of direction were authorized amounts, which have havened active head to be for the last the committee and these unadjusted and unascertained amounts, which have h but the committee under instruction of the bond-holders' board of direction were authorized rosettle all these unadjusted and unascertained amounts, which have become active liabilities of the com-pany. The settlement which has been made with these trustees involves a known loss to the com-pany of about $500,000, in addition to the claims included in the company of about $500,000, in addition to the claims has above mention; and their release from further liability and discontanuance of the suit by the present managers of the company, suggested the present movement of the stockholders, to recover lurther."
